

The Oxford Statement and The MedsWeCanTrust Campaign

Raffaella Ravinetto wrote a short piece for PEAH â€“ Policies for Equitable Access to Health

21-01-20

150+ individuals have signed a global call to say...

It's time to make access to quality medical products an immediate global priority.

– Oxford Statement: A Call for Global Access to Quality-Assured Medical Products

Let's demand #MedsWeCanTrust

Dit is de omschrijving

The path toward universal access to quality-assured medical products requires a multidisciplinary approach whereby pharmaceutical regulation is not seen (anymore) as a technical issue that is dealt with by technical experts in isolation, but rather as an important component of pharmaceutical systems, that is strictly interconnected to the other systems' components; and that should benefit from collaboration with policy makers, health economists, social scientists, researchers etc.

In this regard, the recent publication, in the Lancet Global Health, of the Oxford Statement and call to action for global access to quality-assured medical products, is a welcome development.

Read the full article