

10th European Congress on Tropical Medicine and International Health

The 10th edition of the “European Congress on Tropical Medicine and International Health” – ECTMIH2017 – took place in Antwerp from October 16-20, 2017. A biennial event, this year’s edition focused on translating scientific progress into societal impact and promoting evidence-based practices and policies, especially for poor and neglected communities.

It also acted as a forum for reflecting on the role and position of tropical medicine, global health and international cooperation in the 21st century. ITM proudly organized ECTMIH2017 together with Be-cause Health and the Federation of European Societies for Tropical Medicine and International Health (FESTMIH).
